In recognition of Black History Month, Woodland Hills School District students of all ages had the opportunity to engage in numerous programs, activities and educational experiences throughout the month of February.

The entire district was invited to take part in One Book, One District, a program organized by Mr. Kevin McGuire at the high school library. Those who participated read "Men We Reaped" by Jesmyne Ward. Towards the end of the month, Ms. Ward joined Mr. McGuire for an episode of the Woodland Hills Interaction Series and provided insight about the book and answered questions from students.

At the high school, the first week emphasized health and wellness. The second week was about food for the soul and mind. During Parent Teacher Conferences, the district's community and business partners had tables set up with information about their programs and services for parents. In the cafeteria, parents and guardians were treated to a delicious menu of soul food. The third week promoted self love and mental health, while the final week was devoted to the Black Student Union's programming, including an assembly on Friday, February 25 that featured quizzes on Black history and multiple musical performances.

Kindness Challenge at Turtle Creek STEAM Academy.

The school spent a week devoting kind acts to the entire district, a week of kindness directed at the school, and a week of kindness directed to the community. The acts of kindness included the collection of snacks and other items to create 11 gift baskets. The gift baskets were donated to the other buildings in the district as well as healthcare workers in the community at Forbes Hospital, UPMC East Hospital, Monroeville Urgent Care and Primary Care, Children's Community Pediatric and Children's Urgent Care in Mon-

In Our Own Backyard!!

Family Care Connection is a partnership of UPMC Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh and the Allegheny County Department of Human Services with families and local communities.

Family Care Connection at Turtle Creek is located within the Penn Plaza Shopping Center across the street from the Turtle Creek Post Office. The center's staff seek to provide the best level of care for families and their children by offering a comprehensive array of health, education and social development programs.

The goal is to help families throughout the initial stages of parenthood, and through children's early development from pregnancy through age 5. Our staff are certified in the Nurturing Parenting and Parents as Teachers curricula.

We work side-by-side with families to meet their individual needs, and with community partners to help families achieve their goals. Our community partners include:

- Turtle Creek Police Department
- Mon Valley Providers Council
- 412 Food Rescue

Site Coordinator. Mary Louise Fuga gave TCDC member Beth Hamill a tour of the facility. She stated, "It is a wonderful facility! They offer a wide array of programs for babies to adults. Thank you to the entire staff for making such a special contribution to our community."

All programs are free and on a voluntary basis.

Family Care Connection Center in Turtle Creek is centrally located on a bus line for convenient access to public transportation.
